

swissnordicbio

Connecting Healthcare Innovations, Investors & Industry

VIKTOR DRVOTA, MD, PHD

CEO

Karolinska Development

Karolinska Development (Nasdaq Stockholm: KDEV) is a listed investment company, originating from the Karolinska Institute, which offers an opportunity to share in the growth in value of a number of Nordic life sciences companies with high commercial potential, nine of which have projects in the clinical development or early launch phase.

Investment focus is on first in class products with high unmet medical need. Clinical phase II results are expected for presentation from five studies in the portfolio companies' projects in 2019.

The management team have significant venture capital and financial experience. The CEO, Viktor Drvota, has a background as associate professor in interventional Cardiology before embarking on a career in venture capital in 2002 resulting in numerous trade sales and IPOs.